CIRCULATION

For more than six decades, we’ve been delivering the best, most relevant content to the industry’s leading influentials

As the industry’s leading nationally distributed magazine, Foodservice and Hospitality is the only hospitality publication audited by a third-party audit company (CCAB, a division of BPA Worldwide). Strong, quality readership is the cornerstone needed to meet the desired results of marketers and to reach key decision-makers. The magazine’s unparalleled coverage of the marketplace enables advertisers targeting the foodservice industry — particularly those launching new products and services — to achieve their communication and sales objectives through targeting market segments where their products and services are required — locally, regionally and nationally.

What neuroscience says about why print magazine ads work

Reading on paper is slower and deeper; paper readers remember more

In June 2017, Foodservice and Hospitality commissioned Starch Research Services to undertake an extensive readership study of the June Top 100 Report issue. The results were generated through online interviews conducted with a nationwide sample that reflects Foodservice and Hospitality’s circulation profile.

HERE’S A SAMPLING OF THOSE STARCH RESULTS:

1. Our readers are loyal and longstanding
   The average length of time as a reader is 5.7 years.

2. Our total foodservice and hospitality readership is 120,000
   Based on the Starch Research Study, Foodservice and Hospitality is read by a total of 4.8 readers per copy, (the industry average is 3.4) for a total reach of 120,000 readers.

3. Our readers want a Canadian publication
   94% of F&H readers claim it’s important to have a Canadian business publication reporting on the industry.

4. Our readers value foodservice and hospitality
   Foodservice and Hospitality readers spend an average of 39.4 minutes reading every issue of the magazine and 85% of F&H readers normally read or look into three or four out of four issues.

5. Our readers prefer print
   90% of our readers prefer receiving print copies rather than a digital edition on a tablet or computer.
